

① A formal organized choice by vote of a person for a political office or other position

① as Elections are a democratic way of selecting representatives' as They ensure that the representatives rule as per the wishes of the people.'

as Elections help voters to choose representatives who will make laws for them, form the government & take major decisions.'

as The voters can choose the party whose policies will guide the govt. & law making.'

as Thus, election is a mechanism by which people can choose their representatives at regular intervals & change them if they wish to.'