

Homework

Ans:— When a net-zero external unbalanced force is applied on the body, it's possible for the object to be travelling with a non-zero velocity. In fact, once an object comes into motion & there is a condition in which it's motion is unopposed by any external force, the object will continue to remain in motion.