

Q3: "Caste system is very inherent in politics" Justify.

Ans Caste system is inherent in Indian politics because it plays a dominant role in Indian politics.

- 1) There are many caste like SC etc. which influence those who are in power by different methods to get their demand met. Caste also plays an important role when candidates are nominated by political parties.
- 2) Political parties like the DMK, AIADK and BSP have come up to protect the interest of the backward classes. Even while ministers are formed, different castes are kept in mind.
- 3) The SC and ST are given reservation in educational institutions, legislatures and government jobs to remove their historically accumulated backwardness.