Pollution
Space for Answer

Once there was a small village near the river Orange. People of that village went to the river for bathing, for taking water, bathing their cows etc. Soon a factory of a popular company was transferred to that place. The village began to convert to a city after the factory started working. This rapid urbanisation caused a lot of pollution. The smoke from the vehicles and factory caused the air to pollute, and as the dirty waters from houses and factory were thrown into the river, it also caused a lot of pollution. The poor village people with less facilities were still going to that river for water. When they drank this water, it caused a lot of diseases. When people asked to the Mayor of that city to solve the problem, he did nothing. Once when the Mayor's son suffered from cancer for many days, he realised his mistake and the poor village people's problem. The people were happy as he realised their problems.
