1. Choose the appropriate form of the verbs to complete the following dialogue. One has been done for you.

Sumit: ~~Are~~ Rajeev, do you watch (is watching/watch) football?

Neetu: of course Ronaldo has always been my favorite player! Don't tell me you like (like/are liking) Messi more.

Sumit: Sorry, but I do! He plays (plays/is playing) so well in the league, right now. You cannot deny that he stands (stands/is standing) among the best forwards in the history of football. Surely, there must be some reason why people call (call/are calling) him 'Messiah'!

Neetu: But unlike Messi, Ronaldo is strong on both his left and right foot. Let's not ~~forgot~~ forget that Messi has not been able to win the world cup.

Sumit: Do (Are/Do) you think (think/thinking) that make (is/making/makes) him less of a player? After all, it's not an individual sport and the blame should be on the entire team.

Neetu: I agree (am agreeing / agree). Let's not argue further. I think (think / am thinking) both of them are great players and have contributed a lot to the game.
