

The main factors determining population distribution are climate, landforms, topography, soil, energy and mineral resources, ~~and~~ accessibility like distance from sea coast, natural harbours, navigable rivers and canals.