To,
The editor
Hindustan Times
New Delhi.

Respected Sir,

Kindly allow me to express through your columns of my concern over the awareness for coronavirus. Needless to say how much harmful and dangerous this virus is. But still recklessly many people take it for granted. They neither wear mask nor they maintain social distancing properly. Which leads to very risky situation of being attacked by Covid-19 not just for them but also for the people near to them. These people wouldn't violated the protocol if extremely strict action was taken for violation any rule. People who doesn't wear mask while going out should be fined heavily. People who doesn't maintain social distancing should be given strict warning by the police. I am sure such steps can make our environment safer and instead of this global pandemic we can do our daily work by less worrying about coronavirus.

Yours Faithfully
