(2) Give a factual description of an air conditioner.

An Air conditioner

~~Ques~~ In these days, an air conditioner is common in every house, office, school etc. It is a system that is used to cool down a space. Now-a-days people mostly use air-conditioners instead of windows. Air conditioners are available in colours like white, grey etc. It consumes much of the electricity. It is rectangular in shape and these electrical appliances have components like pump, evaporator etc. Split ACs are mounted high in big rooms but split ACs are better for small room. They are available in different capacities. It is useful especially in summer as it gives a cooling effect to us.

⑧ A street quarrel is quite a common event. Describe any such quarrel witnessed by you.

Ans A street quarrel

A street quarrel is a common-place event in both villages and towns. In our society, there was such a quarrel. Two children were quarrelled over a game. One child was telling that she was the winner of the game but other child was telling that she was the winner. They threw things each other and shouted. The mother of one child came and slapped the other child and her mother came shouting at other child.

another child's mother. Soon the two families began to abuse and accuse each other angrily. Their quarrel knew no bounds at that time, men also joined the quarrel. Soon many people came and gathered in that place seeing the quarrel and some people also were calming the quarrel people. But after that, an old man intervened, showed the same children playing with toys happily in a corner. The quarrel people apologised their mistakes and at last the quarrel ~~was~~ ended peacefully.
