Dear Diary

Today was a horrifying day. You know diary, I hadn't seen the dot sheet of my half-yearly, and but somehow I was quite confident that today it was my English test. But the horrifying - terrifying situation came when I reached school and came to know that it was social ~~so~~ science exam.

This gave me goosebumps. I just went through the chapters from my friend's book real quick. When I got the question paper, I had a pit in my stomach. Well, the exam went quite well, but I ~~had~~ could have done better. I was so afraid to tell this to my parents, but somehow I made it. I hope this day never ever comes in my life again.
Good night!
