

- ① Mohenjodaro is a grid planned city as all streets cut each other at right angles. It was divided into 2 parts higher one known as citadel/acropolis as the administration centre of the city, lower part as the houses for common people. Huge structures like the great bath, granary, houses and the drainage systems all have been administered beautifully.

- ② No specific religion is followed by the neolithic people but they must have been nature's mysteries and then started worshipping them. Cave paintings, figurines of mother goddess, importance of worshipping dead shows us about the magical, religious beliefs by the neolithic people.
